To Whom It May Concern:

3M Company is currently manufacturing several different polyurethane pressure sensitive adhesive tapes, films and formed shapes for surface protection applications. We have several new tapes that offer customers significant improvements in performance and ease of application. Two of our most recent products offer the best uv stability (non-yellowing characteristics) of any polyurethane tape on the market. Clearmask has been and continues to purchase these products and market those as Clearmask Aerogard and Clearmask Lightgard.

Clearmask has been working with 3M for several years on polyurethane tapes and films for industrial, automotive, and consumer applications. They have been excellent to work with and have successfully introduced this to the automotive aftermarket for surface protection applications.

Thank you for your interest in 3M Surface Protection Products.
